This is the first time this nationally recognized presentation has come to the Salt Lake City School District. This presentation will increase your knowledge of the youth, and adult, alcohol and drug culture. The climate of drug and alcohol use is always changing. Preventing alcohol and drug abuse can be difficult if you don't know what to look for. During the past year, new clothing, drugs, alcoholic drinks, music, paraphernalia and concealment methods have come to our schools and communities. Along with these new trends, "neighborhood drug promoting stores" have also become more popular.

This presentation will show you over 100 visual aids, along with photo, videos and detailed descriptions of the different items and trends. You will learn about Identifiers to look for, how to handle conversations with your kids, popular drug culture terms, music and trends. PLEASE JOIN US!

You can't stop what you don't know!

Instructor Officer Jermaine Galloway

Officer Galloway has been a law enforcement officer since 1997. Officer Galloway provides nationwide training to thousands of coalition members, law enforcement, probation officers, prevention personnel, youth, counselors, parents and educators on school and community substance abuse prevention. Officer Galloway will teach you which Utah locations are selling drug and underage drinking related items, logos and identifiers. In 2011, Officer Galloway provided training to over 15,000 prevention, school and enforcement professionals nationwide. In 2010, Officer Galloway received the national "Mickey Sadoff" underage drinking award from MADD for his work with underage drinking and drug use prevention. For more information, go to:
